

June 21, 2017

Hello,

I hope that this letter finds you well and enjoying the first days of the summer. In an effort to serve you better and bring you what you have requested, more COPD information / support group sessions, I have been working with a group to make this a reality.

As you may remember, in the past, the American Lung Association has lung education sessions and support groups under the name of Better Breathers. This program served to educate and support all people who live with lung disease regardless of the specific diagnosis. In an effort to support all of those living with any form of lung disease, we are moving again to this name and getting the help of others in our community for support. This will enable us to bring you great education programs and support on a more frequent basis – just as many of you have requested.

We will be getting community support from local lung doctors, pharmaceutical companies and other community members with a desire to help those who live with lung disease.

You will be getting more communication as we move in this direction, but I wanted you to save the dates for the following sessions that have already been put on the calendar.
